

Master of Public Health Program

POPM*6530
COMMUNICATION I3

Winter 2012

Professor: Karen Morrison, Ph.D.
Clinical Research, 207A
824 4120, ext. 58162
karenm@uoguelph.ca

Guest Lecturers: Michael Meehan, Ph.D. x 58951
mmeehan@uoguelph.ca

Peter Physick-Sheard
x 54053
pphysick@uoguelph.ca

Teaching Assistant:
Sarah Wilmer
swilmer@uoguelph.ca

Schedule: Monday, 12:30 – 15:30. Weekly Lecture/Seminar Sessions

Room: Various – January 9th class in LLC 1713

Office hours: Prof. Morrison, TBD

Appointments can also be made by e-mail.

Calendar Description:

This course introduces the theory of public health communication and emphasizes the development of communication skills related to public health.

Course Objectives and Design:

The objectives of the course are to: introduce theories of public health leadership, critically examine a variety of communication methods, develop individual communication skills, and gain familiarity with facilitation and small group techniques. The course includes lecture and small group activities and requires active participation.